What is Lease Option?

- A “Rent-To-Own” your home plan
- A Lease with option to purchase
- The program
 - Small initial deposit (part of down payment)
 - Monthly payment (partly rent, partly toward down payment)
 - Option to purchase the house at the end of the lease term

Benefit of Lease Option – Tenant

- Opportunity to buy a house under difficult circumstances:
 - Not enough down payment
 - Bad credit or no credit history
- Lock in purchase price when saving up for the down payment
- Pride of ownership and flexibility in upgrading the property

Lease Option Benefits Landlord/Investor

- More or less worry free tenant
 - Option premium
 - Tenant pride of ownership
- Savings on cost of sale
- Lock in profit and cash flow
- Improve cash flow
- Secure investment
- Helping people achieve home ownership

Rent-to-Own Client Profile

- Can not or do not want to put 10% to 25% of the purchase price as down payment to buy the house.
- May not be able to qualify for a mortgage today because they may have:
 - Poor credit history
 - Insufficient income record/history
 - A recent Short Sale, DIL or Foreclosure

What is the catch?

- It is a Commitment.
- You need to like the property.
- If you do not exercise the option or default in your monthly payment, the contract will be voided. The seller will keep the option premium.

What should you look for?

- A property in a good location that can appreciate in value
- A reasonable agreement for future purchase terms
- A reasonable portion of the payments applied towards the future purchase price to assure enough down payment to secure financing
- Flexible buy-out (option) schedule
- An affordable property

How can I qualify for the program?

- Complete a Rent to Own application
 - Current employment status and history
 - Current landlord contact information
- Credit report and consultation with our Financial Strategists
- Have ability and willingness to improve credit within a reasonable time frame

What is the next step?

- Find a property you like
- Seek counsel on the Lease with Option to Purchase Agreement
- Submit an application and provide reference information
- Consult with our Financial Strategist and Mortgage Advisors
- Execute your Lease Option Agreement
- Move in and Enjoy!!
